Cole Krum is a branch of Chevrolet and this project was their newest dealership. The most unique item with this project was Cole Krum's desire for a car wash. There was no city infrastructure for water or sewers in the area so we rose to the challenge and installed a carwash that filters and reuses its own water. The filter system was a complex biological system that uses an enzyme treatment to filter the used water. That way a majority of the treated used water could be reused. We enjoyed communicating and brainstorming with the client to come up with an innovative, energy efficient, solution.
